

INDEPENDENT MONITORING AND EVALUATION SERVICES TO STRENGTHEN YOUR INTERVENTIONS AND IMPACT

It is increasingly important to demonstrate value for money and evidence based impact. Clear sight of how precious resources contribute to results is critical for change to be successful.

Assessing impact starts with planning for measurable outcomes. It reduces the risk of focusing solely on activities and compliance with processes. In addition to setting outcome indicators from the outset, you need to be able to effectively monitor progress. Sensible and credible data collection approaches and rigorous analysis of outcomes' data is key to that.

When outcomes drive the data collection and monitoring and evaluation activities, interventions are optimally steered to achieve the desired results.

We understand these challenges.

SGS' Monitoring and Evaluation services focus on the issues that most challenge generating effective and efficient results.

Whether you are working in the development context, in a public or private agency, a social enterprise or charity, this is what we want to empower you with:

- setting measurable outcome objectives;
- designing realistic data collection approaches in difficult environments;
- analysing and reporting outcome data objectively and credibly.
